British Fleet Annoys the Sultan Sorely-French Close Negotiations Peacefully With the Hovas and Proceed to Set Up a Government-Foreign News,

Constantinople, Oct. 10.-Late today it became known that the Turkish government had finally presented to envoys of the six powers a reply to their collective note on the subject of the recent disturbances here. The Porte declares that Mussullmans were not the aggressors in the recent rioting but, on the contrary, Armenians killed inoffensive Mussulmans. The note concludes with the assertion that the government is about to open an inquiry into the recent rioting. In view of the unsatisfactory nature of the Porte's reply, the six ambassadors met today to consider what shall be done further. The Sulfan continues to be disturbed by the presence of a British fleet off the island of Lemnose and sent again to the ambassador of Great Britian to ask for the withdrawal of the British warships.

Nothing definite has yet been heard from Sivas Van or Pitlis, where disturb-ances between the Turks and Armen-ians are reported to have taken place.

The Armenian refugees who took refuge in the church at the time of the riots and who have persistently refused to leave those edifices ever since, being fed there with provisions brought to them by friends, have been persuaded to return to their homes. WHOM THE SULTAN FEARS. London, Eng. Oct. 10.—The Constanti-nople correspondent of the Standard says: The situation is far from re-assuring. While the Armenians and some section of the Christian population show less alarm, the Moslem element is in a state of effervescence which is causing the greatest anxiety at the palace. Revolutionary placards were posted yes-terday at the Mosques and in other publis places, clamoring for a consti-tution and for a meeting of national assemblies. Though great exasperations is felt by the Masiem classes against the Armenians, the young Turkish party is adroitly profiting by the general confusion to excite animus against the sultan. who it declares to be primarily respon who it declares to be primarily respon-sible for the present state of affairs. The principal fear at the palace arises not from the Armenians, but from the revolutionary spirit displayed by the Moslems. This fear will almost certainly bring about Armenian re-forms, which there is every reason to hope will be embodied as published be-fore the end of the week.

Evidences of a Crime Found Near Leadville, Colorado.

Leadville, Colo., Oct. 16-Captain of Police Long and Coroner Nelson are investigatign what may prove to be anoth or murder. Near the same spot on Brooklyn Heigibs, where Silser, the Brooklyn Heigths, where Sliser, the milkman, was nearly murdered some months ago, a large rock was found which is entirely covered with blood and human hair. It looks as if the rock had been used to hit some person upon the head. So strong was the evidence that Captain Long continued the investigation and not far away he found a hole where a lot of paper had been buried. The papers were concealed under what was supposed to be a book under what was supposed to be a book cover, and this cover had been used for target practice, as it was full of bullet From the papers it is evident that the man from whom they were taken away was named Don Julian Medino. There was also a number of letters addressed to a man by that name a bill of fare of a Durango restaurant, dated Feb. 14, 1885, a receipt from the Mount Wilson Gold Mining company of Del Norte, also a check made out in favor of Charles F. Painter, manager of the Telluride Journal. All of the letters were written in Italian, and could not be read. Effect of Which is Considered to Have Materially Damaged His Case-Tells a New and Strange Story of a Mysterious Man Who Told Him to Watch the Ferries, Which he Did and There saw a Man Who Does Him No Good Now-Durrant's Iron Nerve Reaches the Breaking

San Francisco, Oct. 10 .- Under the trying cross examination of District Attorney Barnes today, Theodore Durrant made a number of answeres that are regarded as decidedly incriminating, inasmuch as they appear to be in direct conflict with well established facts.

He gave an explanation of a clue regarding Blanche Lamont's disappearince said ta have been received by him that was so palpably a falsehood that everybody in the court room laughed aloud.

The stifling atmosphere of the overcrowded court room came to Durrant's rescue and he was enabled to recover from his confusion during a short recess that followed. When he again came to the stand he remained calm during the most trying ordeals. The prosecution was nevertheless well satisfied with the day's work, for it had accomplished what had never been done before—Durrant for a moment had lost his wonderful self-possession and had been caught in a number of barefaced

MYSTERIOUS STRANGER.

The maze in which Durrant lost his bearings was in telling about the afternoon he spent at the Ferries waiting to see if Blanche Lamont would not ap-pear. Two days before the body of the young woman was discovered, Durrant said that he was standing at the corner of Market and Montgomery streets when a stranger approached him and asked if his name was not Durrant. The stranger then asked Durrant if, in velw of the fact that his name had been unpleasantly connected with the disappearance of the girl, he would not like to find her. Durrant replied that he would be overjoyed even to obtain a trace of the missing girl.
"Watch the ferries this afternoon," said the stranger, "she will try to cross the bay. That is my advice." He did not ask the stranger his name, his residence, or for any additional information. He went to luncheon and from there to the ferries, where he remained until 5 o'clock, not having caught a glimpse of the missing girl. While he was waiting, however, he saw three medical students and an old school mate. One of these men has already testified that he saw Durrant acready testined that he saw purrant ac-cost a school girl whose description ans-wered that of Minnie Williams, who was murdered that night, and ride away toward the Mission on a Howard

STILL ANOTHER SURPRISE.

After a short recess, during which Durrant recovered his composure, a surprise was sprung on him in the hope that it might disconcert him. After that it might disconcert him. After asking Durrant if he had ever made a written statement of his whereabouts on the day Blanche Lamont was mur-dered and receiving an affirmative re-ply. the sisters at the convent.

During the past three days sisters from the convent have been in the city making an effort to find the child. They have been unsuccessful, as have Sheriff Burdge and Sergeant Tim Donevan of the polce force, who have been trying to obtain some information that would lead to the discovery of the child.

Eugene Hagan also received a telegram from the child's mother and from street car.

Mr. Barnes asked him if he told anybody else of the clue given him by the stranger so they could continue the search. Durrant said that he had had no opportunity to tell any of Miss Lamant's friends. When questioned closely Durrant admitted that he attended a meeting of the Young People's society will begin, but it is not improbable that the case will reach the courts in an ef-the convent. Mrs. Van Ceve says the child should be returned to her mother. The women who are connected with the case express much sympathy for the little girl and say she tells "terrible things about the treatment administered to her at the convent."

The members of the league who laterested themselves in the little girl did so to provide for her until some means. could be secured to send her home. Now that the means to purchase a tick-et have been furnished by sympathiz-

JUDGE BRADLEY ORDERS THE RE-LEASE OF CAPTAIN ARMES.

LOOSES HIS WRATH

DENOUNCES THE LATE COMMAND-ING GENERAL'S CONDUCT.

DECISION OPENS A BIG QUESTION

WAR DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS ARE MUCH CHAGRINED.

Case to be Carried to the District Court of Appeals-Amenability of Retired Officers Involved-The Decision

Washington, Oct. 10,-Judge Bradley, of the district supreme court, today ordered the discharge from custody of Captain George A. Armes, who was arrested on an order of Lieutenant Gen-eral Schoffeld, for having written an insulting letter. The judge scored the action of the late general, characterising it as unlawful, tyrannical and capri-

The judge advocate general's office of the war department has determined to take an appeal from the decision of Judge Bradley. This will carry the matter to the court of appeals of the District of Columbia. Judge Bradley in his opinion express ly recognizes the right to court martial a retired army officer by saying: "By section 1266 of the revised statutes of the United States he is 'subject to the rules and articles of war and to trial by court martial for any breach there of " and declares that arrest is not essential to a court martial. Speaking of the letter written to General Schofield by Armes he cites the article relative to complaints by officers and men and says: "This was a personal and private communication to that officer. It makes grave charges of that officer. If makes grave charges of persecution, injustice, wrong and unjust and improper official action by General Schofield to the petitioner. If these charges were true, would their making be conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, or conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline. If the petitioner believed or thought that they were well founded would it be such conduct?"

would it be such conduct?"
"Is it possible that an officer in active servoce may lawfully seek redress from the commanding officer of his regiment, who he thinks has wronged him. and that a common soldier may law-fully complain of an officer if he thinks himself wronged by him, but that a re-tired officer, out of active service, entired officer, out of active service, engaged in the pursuits of civil life, cannot complain to the general commanding officer of the army of wrongs he thinks or believes that general has inflicted upon him, without being subjected to summary arrest and lucarceration and ultimate trial by court martial?

"If so, then there is a rigid unwritten discrimination against such an ofley in the Armes case. Secretary La-mont refused to say what his purpose was, but it is inferred in view of the breadth of the decision, that no atbreadth of the decision, that no at-tempt will be made to try the captain by court martial, pending the action of the appollate court upon the appeal noted today. The case has outgrown its original importance in view of the court's action today and now becomes of absorbing interest to all of the army, involving, as it is said to do, the whole question of the amenability of retired officers to discipline.
